LUNCHTIME SESSION / SÉANCE DÉJEUNER

Risk of Social Media Use and Addiction in Schools: Using the collected data and artificial intelligence, social media companies push content to increase usage. This addictive behaviour has led to an epidemic of mental health and medical issues in Canada. Our schools are on the front lines. This has resulted in an unprecedented increase in the need for specialized personnel, supports and services.

President's Reception / Soirée de la présidence

Monday, April 29 / le lundi 29 avril

KEYNOTE ADDRESS / DISCOURS PRINCIPAL

Creating Culturally Responsive and Anti-Racist Classrooms: Black students face systemic barriers in education, and anti-Black racism is a systemic problem in our school systems. But innovative thought leaders are pioneering creative and actionable ways to help dismantle those barriers. Please join us for a panel discussion with leading Black educators, scholars and lawyers on how to create culturally responsive and anti-racist classrooms.

PLENARY SESSION / SÉANCE PLÉNIÈRE

with/avec Shaheen Shariff

Navigating Contemporary Socio-Legal Controversies: Anti-Wokeism, Social Media Content Moderation, and Institutional Censorship in Educational: Social media content moderation is a battleground for balancing free speech and responsible curation, while institutional censorship, framed within legal boundaries, raises questions about academic freedom. Understanding these connections is crucial in navigating contemporary socio-legal challenges. This panel will include presentations about these three topics and foster critical discussions about the balance between EDI (equity, diversity, inclusion), digital governance, and institutional censorship within institutions of higher education and greater society.

PLENARY SESSION / SÉANCE PLÉNIÈRE

Indigenous Education, Justice, and Reconciliation: Join us for a panel discussion with leaders in Indigenous education and justice, both on- and off-reserve, to hear perspectives on how both Indigenous and non-Indigenous educators can teach and promote justice and reconciliation in their classrooms.

Most recently, on February 9, 2024, the Supreme Court of Canada confirmed the constitutionality of the Act respecting First Nations, Inuit and Métis children, youth and families, which affirms Indigenous peoples' inherent right of self-government in relation to child and family services, and gives related laws passed by Indigenous communities the force of federal law, prevailing over provincial laws to the extent of any conflict.
